

Courts that run themselves, around every booking.

Hotels are adding padel courts because guests and local members will pay to play. Keeping a desk open until 10pm to switch lights and let people in is what costs money. Court Intel connects to the court bookings and runs the lights, the door and the numbers from them, so the courts earn at 7am on a Sunday without anyone on duty.

WHAT IT DOES

Lights follow the bookings

Each court lights a minute before a paid booking and goes dark two minutes after it. Every switch is confirmed and logged, so no light burns over an empty court and nobody walks over to a switch at night.

The door opens for the booking

Guests and members let themselves in with a code on the keypad or a button on their phone, only during their slot. Staff get a daily code, every opening is logged, and it keeps working if the internet drops.

Know what the courts earn

A live dashboard and weekly email: occupancy by hour, revenue per court, and an early warning when an hour you usually fill starts to slip, so the leisure team acts before the takings show it.

Why it suits a hotel

Open longer, staff the same

Early mornings and late evenings run from the bookings, not from the rota.

A better guest experience

No queue at reception for a court key. Book, arrive, play. Players can even score the match on their phone.

Energy only when it earns

Floodlights run for paid bookings and nothing else, with a record of every hour lit.

One view across a group

Each site has its own dashboard, and court counts are priced across the whole group.

Fitted by your electrician. Set up by us, remotely.

01

We supply it ready

An industrial controller, keypad reader and smart breakers, configured for your site before they ship.

02

Your electrician fits it

Standard DIN-rail kit with wiring drawings and an online install guide for your site.

03

We commission remotely

We connect your bookings, test every court and the door with your team, and monitor it from then on.

IN SERVICE TODAY

107/107

light switches confirmed by the lighting panel itself over 11 days at a two-court indoor club monitoring: we are alerted within minutes if a site goes offline or the bookings feed stops

24/7

Built by On Padel, who build and operate padel courts. Our roadmap is public, so you can see what is live and what is coming next.

BOOKINGS

Works with Playtomic today, the booking platform most UK padel courts, including many hotel courts, already use.

If your courts book through another system, tell us which. We will say honestly whether we can connect to it and when.

The same controller can run other booked spaces on the same system, such as tennis or pickleball courts.

Published prices

Lights	£39 / month
Lighting that follows the bookings, dashboard, alerts and activity log
Unstaffed: lights and door access	£99 / month
Everything in Lights, plus booking-driven door access, daily staff code and gate log. One door included
Each court beyond the first two	£12 / month
Either plan
Installation kit, one-off	£499
Pre-configured controller, set up for your site. Smart breaker £43.86 per court where one is needed
Door access pack, one-off, per door	£899
Keypad reader and set-up

Prices exclude VAT. Monthly prices cover up to two courts. Full price list and Venue Terms at courtintelligence.co.uk.

See it running

A 30-minute video call with a live demo club: lights, door and dashboard.
Book at courtintelligence.co.uk/book

Tim Sharrock

Co-Founder, On Padel Ltd
tim@onpadel.co.uk